This international project connects people and cultures in the Danube countries

2017 - 2019

About the project

Tastes of Danube: Bread connects

Bread is more than a basic food. For many centuries, it has been a symbol for community and sharing in almost every culture and religion in Europe. Since bread connects us in so many ways, we have named our project “Bread connects”.

Goals

In the project “Tastes of Danube. Bread connects” bread shall be experienced as a culturally specific and identity-sustaining measure for different target groups in the Danube area: With common cross-border work, one can find cultural distinctiveness, differences, but also many similarities – diversity is experienced positively through communal action. The long-term goal is to create a virtual “Cultural Road of Bread along the Danube” based on the results of the project.

Methods

Apart from researching baking traditions, festivities and museums, the focus is on researching public baking houses as a way of common baking and communication.

Through intergenerational, intercultural and inclusive baking activities as well as qualification for new methods for baking as an identity-generating activity, bread as cultural good is experienced in its diversity on a local, national and European level.

The results are documented on the website.

Activities during the project

The start of the campaign was the Bread Baking Week along the Danube in October 2017. With the activity a sign of friendship shall be given. It represents mutual recognition and a peaceful cooperation in the Danube countries and in Europe.

This sign of friendship shall be strengthened from people of all ages, different ethnicities and social status in the photo campaign “Give a sign of friendship” which will then be merged into a transnational ribbon of friendship: bread-connects. tastes-of-danube.eu/ give-a-sign-of-friendship

We would like 1.000 photos with greetings of friendship by the end of June 2018. Give your sign of friendship, too!

Participation is easy:
Send us a photo of yourself with your family or friends, the project flyer and a loaf of bread to: info@ileu.net.
Thus, you concede the image copyright to us.
